Stresses Education Value

St. Louis, Jan. 6.- The high value of a liberal arts education to the leaders of tomorrow was stressed by Stuart T. Saunders, president of the Norfolk and Western Railway, in an address to the American Conference of Academic Deans here today.

"Business needs people with 'know why' as well as 'know how,'" Saunders said, after reviewing the massive changes in the world's industrial pattern in the last 150 years.

"The day of industry's dependence upon tinkering inventors has passed into limbo," he declared. "Clearly, American industry is now wholly and irrecovably dependent upon education . . . . I submit that the last half of the Twentieth Century belongs not to the atom but to educated minds."

"The day of industry's dependence upon tinkering inventors has passed into limbo," he declared.

"Clearly, American industry is now wholly and irrecovably dependent upon education . . . . I submit that the last half of the Twentieth Century belongs not to the atom but to educated minds."

"The ends of technical and liberal arts should be the same: to produce a truly educated man. Both roads, therefore, should lead to the same ultimate destination. But it seems to me that the chances of getting there are generally better by the liberal arts road. Any subject, including technical and skilled courses, can be taught in a liberating fashion. The trouble is that they very rarely are. . . ."

In FASHION now

Tropical prints are very big in the cruise clothes line. Cotton finished like silk is a leading fabric. In fact, this coming spring and summer will find cotton as the leading fabric. There are so many different new textures of cottons that they never become dull or tiresome. Also, there is no cooler fabric known.

If you are handy with knitting needles, you can be the smartest looking woman around. The knitted coat has been an important item in the fashion picture for the past two seasons. The latest look for the knitted coat is away from sweater lines, popular during fall and winter, and more to coat lines. A great many knitted coats look like fabric coats except for the distinctive way they hang.

Looking ahead to beach wear, we see no drastic change in line. Knitted cotton pullovers in bold stripe patterns worn over crisp shorts or to-the-ankle pants will again be a common sight. The romper top, nothing more or less than a knitted cotton bubble drawn in by elastic over matching shorts may do something for some gals.

The two-piece swim suit will make a comeback. The maillot will be worn by the girls with the figure for it. Just remember that the maillot calls attention to any figure fault while playing up the figure's good points.

The draped suit is seen in all the collections. This is the most flattering to the figure and looks good on all figure types.

Play shoes that are not Italian imports are likely to be copied from Italian designs. The new shoes are flattering to foot and leg and at the same time give you comfort plus.

Comment On Sports

FOOTBALL

By Pete Fritchie

Washington, Jan. 15 — The Rose Bowl game could have been played on January 1st between Louisiana State University and Iowa — and what a wonderful game that would have been. It would have been the battle between the number one and number two college teams of the country in 1958.

But the pact between the Pacific Coast League and the Big Ten has reduced the standing of the Rose Bowl game from "the bowl game" to one of four major bowl games. The Big Ten has done a good job of fielding powerful teams.

Even so, however, there have been years when some other team would have been a far better representative than the Big Ten team which was invited. But this disadvantage could have been lived with — if the weaker entry had been up to comparable standing.

The western entries, though, have not been tough enough, over the years, to make the Rose Bowl game the top game of the New Year's Day football fare. In fact, in past years the Rose Bowl game has generally rated behind some of the other bowl games.

The Cotton Bowl had a better game this year, between the Air Force and T. C. U. Air Force had tied Iowa, so the Falcons were pretty good. The Horned Frogs were also good, and that one ended 0-0.

The Sugar Bowl had a better game, though the scoring was light. A fired-up crowd of South Carolina Tigers, insulted by press clippings prior to the game, did the Atlantic Coast Conference proud by outgaining national champion LSU before losing 0-7.

Both teams blew some chances in this one but LSU's second-half touchdown was a gift from Clemson, which shows how close it really was at New Orleans. At Miami, Syracuse should have looked better on the scoreboard at the end of the Orange Bowl game, but Oklahoma struck with devastating speed and piled up a lead and then held off the Orange despite Syracuse's impressive statistics margin.

They're talking about ending the "imbreeding" at Pasadena, and we hope this is done. Let the Rose Bowl pick two teams it feels represents the best possible contenders and play away in the Tournament of the Mrs. Jessie Paulette at Charlotte C. H. His sister, Mrs. Beatrice Romer, of Lynchburg, spent a few days visiting him in the same home.

Roses. Only then will the Rose Bowl continue not to be what it used to be.
